ABOUT FIGURING

How 'tis, he was a great Mathematician

Our mathematical neighbor, under the above facetious italic head-line, dashes furiously at some figures in the Ohio vote given in our columns yesterday morning and exults over what he arraigns as the errors and deceptions of THE WHIG. It may possibly cool our contemporary's ardor of impeachment to be informed that the article he assails was copied by us verbatim et literatim, with the exception of a single error in a figure, from the Chicago Inter-Ocean, the usual credit line being inadvertently omitted. The mistakes, therefore were not ours, except in so far as we deserve responsible by copying without special verification. Our own error was a typographical slip by which an 8 was substituted for a 3 making the falling off in the total vote as compared with 1875, eighty odd thousand, instead of thirty odd thousand, but the falling off in the Republican and Democratic vote from that year was over 80 000 the difference being made up by the diversion of votes from the two parties to side tickets. We find that our Chicago contemporary was somewhat careless in minor details and instead of speaking of the total falling off from the Presidential vote of 1876, undoubtedly intended to say that the joint Republican and Democratic vote has fallen off over 130,000 from the Presidential figures, the Republicans losing over 80,000 and the Democrats over 50,000 respectively. The results of the elect on substantially are given in the article, although not stated with the care that we should use in analyzing such figures. There have been some minor discrepancies in reporting the final returns from certain counties, and when we obtain the official footings we shall give them in detail.

As our neighbor has been evidently led to inspiration by anxiety to present a correct statement of the Ohio vote than by a desire to demonstrate our arithmetical failings in contrast with his own mathematical accuracy we are tempted to copy the following computation, just as they appear in his editorial:

"Now the total votes of Ohio this year and last were as follows

| | |
|---|---|
| 1876, Presidential | 656,073 |
| 1877, Governor, | 539 01 |
| Falling off | 103 370 |

In our own kill ed way, we should have figured out that difficult problem in subtraction to show a difference of 100 373. As a matter of fact, the total Presidential vote in 1876 as given in the Tribune Almanac, was 648 373. But here is another of our neighbor's examples, this time in addition:

The vote of the parties for President in Ohio last year was as follows

| | |
|---|---|
| Hayes | 330 698 |
| Tilden | 323 182 |
| Cooper | 4 057 |
| Smith, | 1,836 |
| Total | 659 773 |

Without other light on the subject we should never have been able to make those columns foot up anything more or less than 659,773, as given by us above.

We regard this sort of criticism as a very good business, but our Democratic neighbor is so fond of it that he is so much engrossed in the duties of his own physique. He devotes himself to the great work of hunting down a typographical error or a slip of the pen in the columns of an opponent, with all the yelping zeal of a starved terrier in search of a rat hole. It is upon this that he stands from the discussion of the topic in making an application for the spontaneous explosion of the next intelligence should burst from the lips of Farnum that mighty intellect should burst from the lips of Farnum that the public would be over that a gross ab. 3 691 in a single column, and whose mind could add up four columns without error in four of the six figures of three addends, would do well to go to his over taxed mathematical powers to explain.

Both of the Pennsylvania Senator Cameron that Pennsylvania in whom the delegation from the State should agree upon would be appointed Minister to England. Secretary Evarts in course of conversation with Cameron made the remark that the desires of the Senators and Representatives in regard to so important a position would be received with courtesy. He had no idea of calling a meeting of the Pennsylvania delegation. What was an afterthought of Don Cameron's and the members of the delegation it is said now blame young Cameron very much for what has occurred.—Wilmington Journal.

Will the Journal kindly inform us what the above means, if, indeed, it really has any meaning. It starts remarked that the desires of the Senators and Representatives would be received with courtesy. How did he propose to ascertain the desires, if he had no idea of calling a meeting of the delegation. And if he expressed to Don Cameron a wish to learn the desires of the Senators and Representatives "on what ground does any one blame young Camden very much" for taking the only appropriate method of ascertaining the "desires" of his colleagues? Also, as the Senators and Representatives expressed their "desires" for the appointment of the most distinguished Pennsylvania Republican, why was not that expression received with courtesy? With all due respect we must say that the Journal's paragraph reads to us very much like labored nonsense.

CURTIS IN THEORY AND PRACTICE.—The Washington special of the very reliable N. Y. Evening Post man the following statement

Mr George William Curtis has strenuously urged Mr. Benedict's appointment, and the President, having full faith in Mr. Curtis's judgment, was disposed to accept his recommendation and appoint Benedict until Secretary Sherman affirmed that the selection was not a proper one and would not be satisfactory to the reform element in New York, Mr. Curtis excepted. The records and papers on file in the Department show," said the officer who conversed with our correspondent, "that Mr. Benedict is not a reformer, but a party henchman who is totally unfit to hold an important position under this Administration and it is surprising that Mr. Curtis has endeavored to secure for him so important a position as Naval Officer."

The Washington correspondent of Sam. Bowles' Springfield Republican writes

The fact is, the President finds himself done, so far as the politicians on both sides are concerned, and he is a little hungry for personal sympathy. It may seem singular, but it is a fact that no prominent Republican here wholly approves of the President since he entered the White House—not even Mr. Christiancy, or Mr. Booth, or Mr. Edmunds, or Mr. Morrill, or Mr. Hoar, or Mr. Dawes. In short, there was a state of feeling among Republicans of all shades that has compelled the President to look over his position again, and there are strong indications of change. Such is common rumor here at any rate.

SENATOR MORTON'S REPORTED VIEWS.

(From the Chicago Inter-Ocean.)

Senator Morton has been ill for many months. Though his physical affections are said to have not affected his mind, it cannot be otherwise than that months of severe suffering have rendered it impossible for him to safely or carefully consider all the complications that enter into the present political situation.

We devoutly hope that the time will soon arrive when Senator Morton's great powers will be fully restored, and the country again have the benefit of his keen advice and counsel, but we hardly think it just to him, or fair to his friends, that in his present condition there should be put forth articles said to reflect his views, especially when such articles are so unfortunately worded as that which appeared in the Indianapolis Journal yesterday.

We prefer to accept no man's word regarding the views of Senator Morton as to the Southern surrender. If he recovers he can and will speak for himself, and we are confident that his words will have no double meaning.

If unfortunately, he should no be able to return to active duty, we prefer to accept his utterances in the past, bold, manly, patriotic, as they were, to any weak reflection of his opinions which ambitious men may seek to put upon us now.

The last words that Senator Morton uttered on this subject before he was stricken down with his disease were to the effect that the Southern policy was a measure of necessity, not of justice; and his latest speech on general topics, just before his return from California, held up the terrible consequences of Ku Klux supremacy in as strong a light as ever.

Since that time, to be sure, it has been officially announced that the Southern policy was not a measure of necessity, but was adopted because it was right, yet we are not ready to believe that because of that Senator Morton quickly and absolutely changed his views to harmonize with the official ukase, and is now ready to chime in harmoniously with that view.

Says the Journal, speaking, as it claims, by authority

The delay for discussion has passed as to the right or wrong of the Southern policy of the Administration.

This may express the views of Mr Morton, sick, but we refuse to believe that it reflects his view when well. Slavery is dead issue; the day for its discussion has passed but if a body of delegates to a Republican convention should introduce a resolution declaring that all our battles against it were wrong, and that slavery is a divine institution we fancy the day for its discussion would be revived suddenly and energetically. As we said yesterday the policy was a finality as known as much as in Ohio, but the difference was that on convention approved the surrender, while the other condemned it, and the result is known of all men.

Again the Journal says

As long as their pledges are kept and peace maintained, the policy should be to support and to that end we should sustain the President in the efforts he is making for peace and conciliation.

This assumes that the pledges have been kept and the peace maintained in the South since the adoption of the policy.

And this in the face of the unofficial returns at all. Republicans have been killed in South Carolina, the whole right of every person made to the colored man there in attending their schools the record of the Ellenton murderers, the refusal to bring the murders of the Hamburg massacre to justice, the arrest and trampling up in jail against the plainest statutes, and still further, the great shameful, notorious fact that in two States of the South the Republicans have been compelled to forsake, at least on that party organization, surrender the right to vote their honest sentiments and retire from all participation in public affairs.

Peace! Is this the peace we have contracted for? Is this the peace we would maintain? Are men to be driven from their homes like wild beasts because they dared to differ on public affairs from the ex slave drivers who persecute them? There are men in Ohio, as to-day, who are fugitives—not from justice, not from lawful prosecutions, but fugitives for opinion's sake—fugitives from the hatred, the malice the in-clement tyranny of the pledging, promising chivalry of Mississippi and South Carolina.

Is this the sort of peace that we are to accept and take up our cross to thank our Northern Democratic brethren for? No, Mr Journal. No, Mr President, and no, Messrs Conciliators and Compromisers all. Politicians may accept, the people will spurn it. Unthinking men may rejoice over and praise it, the great mass will reject and repudiate it. The brain, the heart, the conscience of this country demand liberty of thought the protection of the citizen, the untrammeled enjoyment and exercise of human rights everywhere on this broad continent, and haggle, argue as we may, to that complexion must it come at last.

George A. Gifford, Esq. of Vassalboro', sent abroad to market the four per cent. U. S. bonds, returned home with his family a few days ago, and in good health.—Fairfield Journal.

In other words, this person who has always been supposed many years ago a Federal office in Maine as a blood sucker upon the National Treasury; who bowled week after week in his enemy more greedy against the enormity of permitting Congressmen to poke friends and relatives into snug berths in the public service who roared furiously at the waste of money on sinecure appointments, and who has vented his malignity upon every prominent Republican in Maine except his brother-in-law, Representative Hale, himself secured one of those sinecure offices, and has been making a tour of Europe with his family at the Government expense. His "marketing" of the four per cent U S bonds" amounts to the fact that he was appointed as a "pedestalian" of new bonds and had simply to carry them to London and deliver them to the Syndicate. It was one of the "softest jobs" in the realm of patronage and one that any Treasury Department clerk would have been glad to take. As his health is said to be improved we shall expect Gifford to settle right down to his old business of denouncing the "greedy recipients of public patronage."

One of the staunchest and most level-headed Republicans of Ohio, is the editor of the Newark, American, A. B. Clark, Esq., and the columns of his paper give out the true ring of Republican principle. In the issue of 26th inst. the American punctures the surrender policy with this paragraph.

We have often been led to wonder whether those who favored the President's Southern policy really understood it. One day we are told that it is a matter wholly of the past, and hence that it is useless to waste any words about it. The very next day we hear assured that if we will possess our souls in patience the future will demonstrate its wisdom,—and we are urged to wait for results. That result of the Rebellion was the emancipation of four million slaves. Did that sanctify the crime of firing on Sumter? For aught we know the millennium may be ushered in to-morrow, and all the people of the world be locked in a fraternal embrace, but if that should happen it would not change the fact that Packard was elected Governor of Louisiana, and that the President sent a Commission down there to prepare the way for Nicholls, thus using the powers of the Government to set aside the will of the people and inaugurate a government of force.

Judge Kelley says it looks as if the Administration, when it promised to appoint any man named by the Pennsylvania delegation for the British Mission, added the mental reservation "provided his name be spelled McVeigh." That individual's name is again trotted out, but we do not believe the Senate would ratify his reward for his work in Louisiana. If we are to have a member of the Cameron family, most people will prefer to take Don's head and brains.

SENATOR MORTON.

Fears of the Worst.

The Great Statesman Gradually Sinking.

Statement of the Indianapolis Journal

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct 29—11 30 P. M In regard to Senator Morton's condition to-night, the truth is perhaps told by the following which will appear in the Journal to-morrow morning

Senator Morton is gradually sinking and it now seems scarcely possible that he can last more than a day or two Hope strengthens the hearts of his friends for an hour or two each day, but when on return of night they compare his condition with that of the day before, there is some new evidence of growing weakness and now complications in his disease, which leave all in despair Nothing has been read to him nor any communication of news for the past 24 hours His stomach retained a small portion of nourishment in the forenoon but ejected everything given in the evening He no longer takes an interest in what is going on around him and only craves the presence of his own family He asked Col Halloway yesterday if the physicians had given him up He may last several days but the chances are against his surviving through Wednesday night There were rumors of his death on the streets all through the day and a general feeling of gloom overshadowed the city [illegible] the report of his condition were made known

His physician Dr Thompson [illegible] [illegible] night [illegible] and yet expresses hope that some change may take place that will enable the stomach of his patient to retain nourishment and with such a change he thinks he might survive There is a bare possibility that such may be the result but it is scarcely probable The end of the great statesman from all human appearance is near at hand

A Mob of Sailors Going it Wild

Some 100 sailors formed a mob in the Fourth Ward to-day and assaulted McCaffey's boarding house smashing in windows but nobody was hurt The arrest of three or four of the ringleaders dispersed the mob The cause of the mob was as follows Sailors were getting $14 per month, but boarding house keepers advanced wages to $20 per month, merchants could not afford to pay this high rate and brought crews from Boston at $14 McCaffrey, who is agent of the Associated Shipping Agency, has been shipping sailors for $18 per month and the men struck for $20 After the mob had broken nearly every pane of glass in McCaffrey's place they marched to pier 13 East River, where the Detroit on which delinquent sailors are employed, was lying and demanded whether the crew was on board, and being informed that the sailors had not come on board the mob settled themselves down to await the crew's arrival but the police drove them off the pier The mob then turned up South street and made for the Fourth Ward The Detroit was then towed [out] into the stream She is all ready to sail for Callao, but is waiting for her crew.

Schurz's Account of the Grant Sumner Difference

WASHINGTON, Oct 26 In an interview Carl Schurz said

The day after the interview between President Grant and Charles Sumner in which the former pressed the latter to support the treaty with San Domingo Sumner told all about it. He repeated the exact words of the answer to President Grant which according to my recollections were something like these 'Mr President every measure of your administration will receive on my part the most respectful and candid consideration It is not true that Sumner promised to support the treaty —He was never favorable to it, but when first brought forward he never said or did anything to discourage or obstruct an entirely impartial consideration"

Schurz thinks Ashley's name was never mentioned in connection with any phase of the San Domingo treaty Nobody could ever accuse Sumner of any act of untruthfulness or duplicity in this or any other matter

LITERARY NOTES.

Secretary Sherman ex Secretary McCulloch and others will give their views in regard to the resumption of specie payments in the November-December number of the North American Review

TRUE ECONOMY is not in buying the lowest priced article The best is cheapest So with the fine cultivated and plantation grown spices imported by Messrs Pickney, Jackson & Co, of London and New York. I have just received a shipment of these goods and I would specially invite the attention of all consumers to them These spices are not only absolutely pure, but are without a doubt the finest ever imported into this country I confidently recommend them as being really of unusual merit.

GET THE GENUINE ARTICLE! The great popularity of "Wilbor's Compound of Cod Liver Oil and Lime" has induced some unprincipled persons to attempt to palm off a simple article of their own manufacture, but any person who is suffering from Coughs, Colds or Consumption should be careful where they purchase this article. It requires no puffing, the results are its best recommendations, and the proprietor has ample evidence on file of its extraordinary success in pulmonary complaints The phosphate of lime possesses a most marvelous healing power, as combined with the pure Cod Liver Oil by Dr Wilbor It is regularly prescribed by the medical faculty For sale by A B, WILBOR Chemist, Boston oct25

OUR COUNTY JAIL

Its Model Arrangements—Col Jerrard's Admirable Discipline and Endurance—Excellent Sanitary Condition —A Card from Dr Seavey the Attending Physician

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier

As I am the attending physician for the Jail of this County I think it but just and proper that I should make a few remarks in relation to this Institution In the first place the building itself is the model of its kind All its apartments are most admirably arranged for the purposes for which they were designed No alteration, in my opinion, could have been made for the better Colonel S G Jerrard, is Sheriff of this County, and also keeper of the Jail In either capacity he is an efficient officer As a Sheriff he knows well his duty, no man knows it better, and he dares perform it As a jailor he is kind and benevolent toward his inmates He is a judge of men and of their nature, and knows well how to use them, consequently all receive due justice at his hands He deals with each and every case according to its deserts When punishment is necessary he knows how and to what extent to inflict it When clemency is called for it flows freely from his [heart] He has made a happy selection of varied help All know their duty and they do it They are under strict discipline Mr Jasper Fisher the Turnkey to the Jail, is a very faithful man His smiling face and affable manners endear him to all He is over kind Mr F M Pratt is superintendent of the Workshop and although his position is a trying and unpleasant one, yet he performs his every duty No better man could have been selected for this department than is Mr Pratt He judges well of physical man and puts him to work where he should, but if a man is sick or has any other reason he excuses him very freely and charitable toward him Mr Pratt governs well If things go wrong in the morning one meeting looks from that black eye of his will set everything right and cause men much [illegible] and all to move with wonderful precision and regularity during the whole day, and this will do

For neatness and proper ventilation this Jail excels any and all others I ever saw Col Jerrard the Jailor, looks well to the sanitary condition of this institution He causes it to be well ventilated every morning and the screens to be removed, so that the sun light of heaven may the better penetrate the dark and gloomy cells of the poor, unfortunate inmates, and to shine in upon them with its benign and healthy influence

The corridors are often and thoroughly washed, and they are cleanly wiped down every morning In every cell is a broom and its occupant must sweep cleanly his own cell every morn Then others, no less than five, and all inmates, do the rest of the sweeping No unpleasant odor can be detected within its walls Thorough washing, clean sweeping, good eating and perfect discipline, is the order of the day in our County Jail.

The inmates tell me that they fare well That they have good and wholesome food and enough of it And of this I have no doubt No one will complain unless he is too lazy to eat, or too mean to be pitied

There has been no epidemic, and but very little sickness of any kind among the inmates of the Jail since Col. Jerrard took charge of it, as I understand, and certainly there has been but little since I have been the physician, and there is none at all now What few cases there have been were contracted previous to the person or persons entering the Jail, and not from any cause emanating from within its walls

In view of all this, it most plainly appears that our Jail is not only well managed, but is superlatively so, and thus Col Jerrard is entitled to much praise for the prudence, wisdom and humanity displayed in the exercise of his official duties He is a man that thinks for himself He allows no man to think for him or even act for him, unless he dictates, and then he is, and is willing to be the responsible party. He is mild in manner, but determined His influence over the inmates of the Jail is wonderful They fear him and yet respect him. His mildness of manner will make them better men," They say he does not scold nor frown, but is gentle and kind This is the right way to mould the character of men I feel proud of our Jail and of its management. I am sorry that we are obliged to have jails or penitentiaries in our land, but so long as man retains his present nature, just so long we shall have outlaws and wicked men, and we must have places for their safe-keeping. And my sincere wish is, that every institution of the kind could have just such a man as Col. Jerrard to manage it. He is certainly the right man in the right place, both as Sheriff and Jailor, and I hope he may long keep them. I have known him a long time, and as a man, I like him for his sterling integrity. But politically—well, there! CALVIN SEAVEY,

Bangor, Oct. 29, 1877.

From East Corinth.

Mr. Editor:—The entertainment that was advertised to come off on Wednesday evening the 24th inst, at Nichols' Hall under the auspices of the ladies of the Baptist Society, owing to unfavorable weather was postponed to Thursday evening, and this proving more unfavorable, they again postponed it to Friday evening, when they were favored with beautiful weather and a fair audience The following was the programme

Statuary—Justice, Mercy and Peace, Duet—"Harp of the Wind," by Misses Dexter and Fuller, Statuary—"Winter Crowning Spring" Quartet—"Grandfather's Clock," by Misses Dexter and Fuller and Messrs —— and Gurney, Statuary—"Before the Bath" Musical Drama—"The Gypsies", Tableaux—"Ignorance is Bliss", Musical Drama—"Auld Robin Gray"

It is enough to say that this entertainment, like all given by the ladies of this society, was most excellent and gave universal satisfaction Ample justice was done the fine display of refreshments at the close of the entertainment The Corinth Cornet Band was in attendance and played several pieces at intervals during the evening with a taste and skill that shows their proficiency as musicians M

ONE MORE REMARKABLE CURE OF CANCER.

I have been troubled with a cancer on the back of my hand more than ten years It came in the form of a scab Some four years ago it came out to a rose cancer and spread nearly all over the back of my hand I had four skillful physicians treat it without effecting a cure The doctors told me the only chance was to have my hand cut off I thought I would wait a few day Finally the day was set to have it taken off but in May last as good luck would have it Dr Tibbetts of Pittsfield Me happened to come to my house and said he could remove the cancer with a plaster and thought I would have a good hand I soon made up my mind to try, as a drowning man will catch at a straw The doctor put on a plaster and the result is that he removed the cancer and I have a good hand I have been able to work most of the time since My work is on a farm My case is better imagined than described I would advise one and all troubled with sores to consult Dr Tibbetts as he makes a specialty of treating Cancers Tumors Fever Sores and Humors Send to him for a circular LEVI PURINGTON

VEGETINE

Purifies the Blood, Renovates and Invigorates the Whole System.

Its Medical properties are

Alterative, Tonic, Solvent, and Diuretic.

Vegetine | Reliable Evidence.

Vegetine | MR. H. R. STEVENS,

Vegetine | DEAR SIR,—I will most cheerfully add my testimony to the great number you have already received in favor of your great medicine, Vegetine, for I do not think enough can be said in its praise, for I was troubled over thirty years with that terrible disease, Catarrh, and had such bad coughing spells that it would seem as though I never could breathen any more, and Vegetine has saved me, and I feel to thank God all the time that there is such a medicine as Vegetine, and I also think it one of the best medicines for coughs, and weak, sinking feelings at the stomach, and it rises everybody to take the Vegetine, for I can assure them it is one of the best medicines that ever was.

Vegetine | MRS. L. GORE,

Vegetine | Cor Magazine and Walnut Sts., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Vegetine | GIVES

Vegetine | Health, Strength,

Vegetine | AND APPETITE.

Vegetine | My daughter has received great benefit from the use of Vegetine. Her declining health was a source of great anxiety to her friends. A few bottles restored her health, strength and appetite.

Vegetine | N. H. GILDES,

Vegetine | Insurance and Real Estate Agent, No 40 Sears Building, Boston, Mass.

Vegetine | CANNOT BE

Vegetine | EXCELLED.

Vegetine | CHARLESTOWN, Mass

Vegetine | H. R. STEVENS,

Vegetine | DEAR SIR,—This is to certify that I have used your "Vegetine" Preparation for my family for several years past, for scrofula or Canker Humor, Erysipelas Affections, &c., and it cannot be excelled, and, as a blood purifier or curing sick headache it is beyond all praise. I have never used an article that I have and almost everybody I can cheerfully recommend it to any one in need of a medicine.

Vegetine | MRS. ANN D. SMOKE,

Vegetine | No. 10 Russell Street

Vegetine | IT IS A

Vegetine | Valuable Remedy

Vegetine | SOUTH BOSTON, Feb. 7, 1876.

Vegetine | MR. STEVENS:

Vegetine | DEAR SIR,—I have taken several bottles of your Vegetine, and am satisfied it is a valuable remedy for Dyspepsia. I believe it to be a general debility of the system. I recently was induced to try it, and have found no relief from the above complaints.

Vegetine | Yours respectfully,

Vegetine | MRS. MONROE PARKER,

Vegetine | 30 Athens Street

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE For CATARRH, IS UNIVERSALLY RECOMMENDED.

We have just received a communication from nearly every druggists in New England and the West, and the testimony is universally in favor of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH. We believe there never was a remedy so popular wherever known, and certainly we feel that here is one more deserving of praise. Founded upon correct scientific principles, and calculated by the most accomplished physicians to meet the worst forms of Catarrh, the cures made by it have not only been numerous, but no remarkable cases of public notoriety have not been made known and caused the sale to exceed tenfold that of any similar remedy ever before compounded.

While many are anxious to make public their testimony in favor of the Radical Cure, others among the number may be found many of our most respected citizens—the fear to become publicly identified with so loathsome a disease. Hereafter, in cases where such fear exists, the name, if not permitted to be given, and to state that we will depend upon us personally to do so, and to state after trying the Radical Cure, and after using one bottle of less date before and after using the Radical Cure, and after using one bottle of less date before and after using the Radical Cure, and after using one bottle of less date before and after using
